

Professor at Tallinn University of Technology and President of the Estonian Society of Nuclear Medicine Tallinn, Estonia

Sergei Nazarenko has been working in Nuclear Medicine since 1981. He had the opportunity to cooperate with the IAEA from 1994-1995, shortly after Estonia became a member of the IAEA. He has represented national counterpart organizations to the IAEA and acted as course director for training courses. He was appointed as an expert to expert missions and QUANUM audits, and mentored Fellows from the IAEA. During his professional career Dr Nazarenko has been able to observe how nuclear medicine and cancer care in Estonia were brought to contemporary standards.