Regulation in Australia

Emerging issues

Implementation of Australia's nuclear-powered submarine program

New radiation technologies and facilities

- Research and services to support safe use of new medical and other technologies that use radiation
- Decommissioning of old infrastructure

Regulatory interfaces and consistency

- Integrating a new operator/regulator and ensuring interfaces are well developed and understood, promoting consistency in radiation regulation

Emerging issues

Growing sector and skills shortages

- Graduate development

Radioactive waste management

- Ensuring appropriate community engagement

Adapting how we work

- Increasing flexibility, using technology and focusing on wellbeing
